1. Location:

The industrial installations are located southeast of RUSTAVI (45°01' E/41°34'N), southeast of the railroad line to BAKU.

2. Plant Installations:

Construction started in the summer of 1945. Some departments were already in production for the construction requirements of other departments, i.e., department "R 3" manufactured steel structures, roof skeletons, and girders for the different workshops. The completion of the rolling mill is scheduled for the fall of 1950. [redacted] it will be provided with three sets of rollers (mill trains). Structural steel parts arrived for two workshops. Numerous spur tracks were laid to the different plant departments. They branched off from the main plant track which ran parallel to the main RR line. An asphalt road was under construction and additional plant roads were scheduled to be built in 1949. For status of construction in June 1949, see Annex.

Comment:

a. The construction of a large iron and steel plant near RUSTAVI and its location have been given in several previous reports.

b. [REDACTED] the report is con- sidered to be of special value.

c. The installation, described as blast furnaces [REDACTED] [REDACTED] is now reported to be the construction site for gasometers (see item 35 of ANNEX). Final clarification of this
